Philosophy. Thoughts. Sommelier.

Wine embodies peace, gives us the gift of time, dispenses warmth; it is created by human hand to be savoured. It revives our senses, brings people together and loosens tongues.

When designing the wine list, I focus on the three countries which epitomise the HORVÁTH -
Austria, Germany and Hungary.

Less is more was my motto, and I always strove to offer a platform to new vineyards as well as the well-known ones. The wines on offer are very versatile - ranging from light, fresh and classical to oxidative, full-bodied and different.

We give you the chance to choose the wine to suit your taste profile. To make your search easier, we have grouped our wines by their characteristics. We want you to be able to relax and enjoy your dinner, and we are there to help you throughout the evening.

"I wish you much anticipatory pleasure in browsing through our wine list!"

"Please feel free to approach me at any time."

People. Memories. Flair.

Our restaurant HORVÁTH, formerly EXIL, has been part of the lively Paul-Lincke-Ufer on the Landwehr canal since 2005. Kreuzberg, now known beyond national borders for its cultural diversity, is one of the most popular districts in Berlin and a place which attracts the adventurous.

The excellent, creative cuisine of Sebastian Frank forms the centrepiece of your visit and it is given the perfect platform by our cordial service team. This was honoured just one year after Sebastian Frank's arrival in Berlin with one star in the Guide Michelin, and Gault Millau followed in 2012 with 17 points thereby giving our chef his "3rd hat". However, far removed from any pomp and ostentation, it is the simple interior of the HORVÁTH that impresses, a simplicity which contrasts with one of our high-class menus and wines. A wealth of wood and warm light make our restaurant a cosy setting for a refined evening meal.

Jakob Petritsch

"The HORVÁTH is something special, you feel as if you were in your own living-room: Lighter, more relaxed with an immediate sense of well-being. The eye is drawn to the wine-red façade with the wonderfully warm atmosphere inside the restaurant. The location as well as the interior design have character and are unmistakable. This is what swayed me to join the team. I hope this evening I can communicate something of that positive feeling that I felt the first time I came here."

Sebastian Frank

"I have grown to love this old, rustic restaurant. It has its own unique charm. it's a one-off."

"In summer you have the chance to soak up the flair of this lively district and to linger over a glass of wine on our vine-woven terrace."

Sparkling. Elegant. Explosive.

The "king of the sparkling wines" with its persistent mousse and elegant body, is always a good way to start the evening. Scarcely has it touched the palate when it explodes into a unique series of sensations. Its glamorously fruity, steely taste sets it apart from the rest and refreshes the spirits. All senses are heightened. Everything is reset, and off we go...

Napoleon Bonaparte, (1769-1821)

Glass. Open. Try.

It doesn't always have to be a bottle, you can also enjoy wine over just one glass or you can take advantage of the chance to try many different wines without having to commit to a single bottle. It's just like life, the more you try things out, the sooner you can define your preferences.

*"good wine is a good familiar creature, if it be well used."
William Shakespeare*

Freshness. Pleasure in drinking. Animating.

I love it when your palate comes alive, when it tingles with the fine acidity, and the young, fresh fruit transports you to cloud nine. The light wine which sparkles with conceit and then drops me after one bottle. The animating pleasure in drinking has your palate doing somersaults of joy after just one sip and the freshness makes room for further impressions.

Melody. Full-bodied. Expansive.

Strong all-rounders that massage the palate and whose melody leaves a lasting impression.

Their creaminess makes these full-bodied wines come across as cosier, the fruit is sharper and gives the wine its soul. They linger long in the memory thanks to their expansive, extrovert character.

Structure. Deep. Demanding.

Aren't the most demanding things in life also the most interesting? These wines impressed me with their depth, and initially they threw up a few questions. Each wine enchants you with its very individual, sometimes headstrong character. Here the winemakers have done a sterling job and managed to give the wine that certain something while leaving it pleasantly harmonious.

*"Why look for the truth in the coffee grounds when it's already so pleasantly concealed in the wine."
André Brie*

Play. Wilful. Authentic.

Children show us how it's done: Learning while playing, open to new experiences, showing courage. I like it when a winemaker stays true to his style! when he plays with the ingredients, when not everything tastes according to the book, when his wilfulness flouts the logical course of action. Such wines are very authentic. Those are the ones you notice, the ones that aren't typical of their grape. They are clear, have a fine, fruity nose and every now and again you find some barrique where you least expect it.

Red Wine

Freshness. Pleasure in drinking. Animating.

The fine acidity and the light tannin structure remain discreetly in the background so that the palate can concentrate on the full, lively fruit notes, and these wines preserve the feeling of fresh drinking pleasure. They never feel too heavy, they are the perfect all-rounders and encourage you to indulge further.

Melody. Full-bodied. Expansive.

The melody of these wines dominates and attacks the palate, leaving a noticeable impression thanks to their full-bodied structure. These full wines are marked by their expansive interplay of acid and tannin besides a pleasantly attendant fruit note. It even scores with a pleasant barrique flavour as a little extra feature.

Structure. Deep. Demanding.

Now you are drinking the Rolls Royce of wines and immersing yourself in the sophisticated world of the art of drinking. They make a very harmonious impression and possess a higher tannin structure as well as more lively aromas.

These wines are the most profound and complete treasures on the wine list. The palate feels like a diver in the Mariana trench: It's at full stretch and at the same time overcome by the unique diversity and beauty it contains. regardless of the challenge, just lean back and let it envelop you.

Play. Wilful. Authentic.

"Do you accept the challenge?" These wines are not for the faint-hearted. Here the winemaker has gone totally against wine-drinkers' normal behaviour, he shows his wilfulness and scores with playful nuances. Although it is hard to put them in any particular box, they are authentic and pleasant to drink. If you accept them on their terms, you won't be disappointed.

François Mauriac

Sweetness. Sensuality. Exciting.

And now comes the liquid gold among the wines! These quality wines possess an enormous range. These sweet wines are characterised by palpable aromas, starting from slightly spicy, through flowery all the way to honey notes. They are the epitome of sensuality, sex for the palate. Their enjoyment is exciting, never dull! They are the perfect way to round off a successful evening.
