Philosophy. Thoughts. Sommelier.

Wine embodies peace, gives us the gift of time, dispenses warmth; it is created by human hand to be savoured. Wine revives our senses, brings people together and loosens tongues.

When I designed the wine menu, I focused on the three countries which epitomise the HORVÁTH - Austria, Germany and Hungary.

Less is more was my motto. Additionally, I always strove to offer a platform to new vineyards as well as the famous ones. The wines on offer are very versatile - ranging from light, fresh and classical to oxidative, full-bodied and different.

We give you the chance to choose the wine to suit your taste profile. To make your search easier, we have grouped our wines by their characteristics. We want you to be able to relax and enjoy your dinner, throughout which we are always there to help you.

"I wish you much anticipatory pleasure in browsing through our wine menu!"

"Please feel free to approach me at any time."

People. Memories. Flair.

Our restaurant HORVÁTH has been a part of the lively Paul-Lincke-Ufer on the Landwehr canal since 2005.

The excellent, creative cuisine of Sebastian Frank forms the centrepiece of your visit and it is perfectly supported by our cordial service team. This was honoured with one star in the Guide Michelin just one year after Sebastian Frank's arrival in Berlin. The Gault Millau followed in 2012 with 17 points, thereby giving our chef his "3rd hat". The Feinschmecker rates HORVÁTH with 4 F. The second star came in 2015, just a year after he and Kessler had taken over the restaurant as owners.

However, far removed from any pomp and ostentation, it is the simple interior of the HORVÁTH that impresses, contrasting with our high-class menu and wines. The wealth of wood and warm light that makes our restaurant a cosy setting has witnessed more than 100 years of gastronomic history. The establishment became famous in 1973, when the Austrian writer and philosopher Oswald Wiener opened the "Exil", which used to be a hotspot for the who's who of the Arts back then. Regulars were Joseph Beuys, Andy Warhol, Rainer Werner Fassbinder, Otto Sander and even David Bowie was a guest quite frequently.

Jakob Petritsch

"The HORVÁTH is something special, you feel as if you were in your own living-room: Lighter, more relaxed with an immediate sense of well-being. The eye is drawn to the wine-red façade with the wonderfully warm atmosphere inside the restaurant. The location as well as the interior design have character and are unmistakable. This is what swayed me to join the team. This evening, I hope I communicate that positive feeling, that I felt the first time I came here."

Sebastian Frank

"I have grown to love this old, rustic restaurant. It has its own unique charm. it's a one-off."

"In summer you have the chance to soak up the flair of this lively district and to linger over a glass of wine on our vine-woven terrace."

Sparkling. Elegant. Explosive.

The "king of the sparkling wines" with its persistent mousse and elegant body, is always a good way to start the evening. Scarcely has it touched the palate, when it explodes into a unique series of sensations. Its glamorously fruity, steely taste sets it apart from the rest and refreshes the spirits. All senses are heightened. Everything is reset, and off we go...

Glass. Open. Try.

It doesn't always have to be a bottle, you can also enjoy wine over just one glass. Take advantage of the chance to try many different wines without having to commit to a single bottle. It's just like life, the more you try things out, the sharper you can define what your preferences are.

Freshness. Pleasure in drinking. Animating.

I love it when your palate comes to life. When it tingles with the fine acidity. When the young, fresh fruitiness lifts you to cloud nine. The animating pleasure in drinking has your palate doing somersaults of joy after just one sip. The freshness makes room for further impressions.

Melody. Full-bodied. Expansive.

Strong all-rounders that massage the palate and whose melody leaves a lasting impression.

Their creaminess makes these full-bodied wines come across more cosy. The fruit is sharper and gives the wine its soul. They linger long in the memory thanks to their expansive, extrovert character.

*"Why look for the truth in the coffee grounds when it's already so pleasantly concealed in the wine."
André Brie*

Structure. Deep. Demanding.

Aren't the most demanding things in life also the most interesting? These wines impressed me with their depth, and initially they threw up a few questions. Each wine enchants you with its very individual, sometimes headstrong character. Here the winemakers have done a sterling job and managed to give the wine that certain something while leaving it pleasantly harmonious.

Play. Wilful. Authentic.

Children show us how it's done: Learning while playing, open to new experiences, showing courage. I like it when a winemaker stays true to his style! When he plays with the ingredients, when his wilfulness flouts the logical course of action. Such wines are very authentic. Those are the ones you notice, the ones that aren't typical of their grape. They are clear, have a fine, fruity nose and every now and then you find some barrique where you least expect it.

Red Wine

Freshness. Pleasure in drinking. Animating.

The fine acidity and the light tannin structure remain discreetly in the background, so that the palate can concentrate on the full, lively fruit notes. These wines preserve the feeling of fresh drinking pleasure. They never feel too heavy, they are the perfect all-rounders and encourage you to indulge further.

Structure. Deep. Demanding.

Now you are drinking the Rolls Royce of wines and immersing yourself in the sophisticated world of the art of drinking. They make a very harmonious impression and possess a higher tannin structure as well as more lively aromas.

These wines are the most profound and complete treasures on the wine list. The palate feels like a diver in the Mariana trench: It's at full stretch and at the same time overcome by the unique diversity and beauty it contains. regardless of the challenge, just lean back and let it envelop you.

François Mauriac

Sweetness. Sensuality. Exciting.

And now comes the liquid gold among the wines! These quality wines possess an enormous range. Sweet wines are characterised by palpable aromas, starting from slightly spicy, through flowery all the way to honey notes. They are the epitome of sensuality, sex for the palate. Their enjoyment is exciting - never dull! They are the perfect way to round off a successful evening.
